

GETTING STARTED

Your blueprint for launching a
Common Law Australia
Community Group

commonlaw-australia.com

Right across our nation,
Common Law Australia
Communities are forming to meet the heart cry of our people.

Increasingly, people see the corruption holding our nation captive and, with urgency, seek a resolution to return our Great South Land to the sovereign people.

Common Law is the gateway to your rights based on Tribal/Natural Law and our Inalienable God-given Rights. The Common Law Community derives its authority from human beings themselves and from their capacity to know what is right and wrong and treat others just and fair manner.

Common Law Australia's intention is for a movement that is arising to reassert the divine purpose and its operation to restore every Man and Woman back to their natural and lawful being.

The vision is to create communities for the people by the people. To bring awareness, connection, and direction to step into our natural human rights. To stand against any authority that rules unjustly against our will. No earthly force can take your sovereign rights away.

A love for our nation and each other inspires the formation of Common Law Communities, and each community will grow organically and intuitively based on the learnings of both our inalienable rights and rights based on our constitution. This blueprint is a guide for getting started and offers a sound structure.

Passion can start a fire ~ a good process will keep it burning.

Common law Australia is one of the go-to platforms for your community and will support you in various practical ways.

Communities gather either fortnightly or weekly. By nature, communities require that no single person runs the show –that said, every successful movement calls for a leader with heart-led passion.

As a collective, appoint roles that lean into personal strengths–this will create a culture for people to embrace training and ongoing responsibilities with ease. We encourage a posture whereby everyone knows that they are valuable.

Firstly, for a strong foundation, there are several facilitator roles required.

- a) Facilitators, for the regular meetings, including roles of the main facilitator, secretary, treasurers, education, and public impact.
- b) Future Facilitators for establishing Common Law in the local region, including the sheriff and judicial and legal coordinator roles.

When describing each role and as people put up their hands, we suggest establishing:

- What are the strengths that make you the best person for this role?
- From your heart, share what you would like to see transformed in our local region (this could relate to governance, people, business, legal matters or otherwise).

1. The role of the main facilitator:

Appoint someone with leadership and presenting experience and positive, solution-based passion and drive. The main facilitator is to:

- a. Set an agenda and chair each meeting.
- b. Guide the collective community into understanding the power within.
- c. Communicate with other role holders weekly.
- d. Identify and pair up with a co-facilitator who can step in during any unexpected or planned absence.

2. The role of a secretary:

Appoint someone with administration and note-taking experience to:

- a. Keep meeting minutes.
- b. Maintain membership and a contact list.
- c. Set and manage meeting registrations and communicate with members.
- d. Liaise and correspond with other Communities and the Head Office (Gold Coast) as required.
- e. Establish and maintain a community business directory to support small operators.

3. The role of treasurers:

Appoint a minimum of two people with business or financial experience to:

- a. Collect donations at the commencement of meetings or events.
- b. Keep a record of all monies, initially using a spreadsheet and Petty Cash tin stored in a secure and agreed-upon location.
- c. Oversee the collection of event registration fees and arrange payment to presenters, venue hires, or any other event-related expenses.
- d. As the Community grows and regularly manages more than $300 in petty cash, establish a bank account with three signatories (if only two people hold the role of treasurer, one more may need appointing, with one taking the lead). One initiates the transactions, and one approves withdrawals or transfers (the third is a backup).

4. The role of educators:

Appoint one or more people with a love for research, education, material preparation, and presentation experience to:

- a. Research, plan, prepare, and liaise with other educators or volunteers to provide:
  - i. Educational topics and materials for regular Community meetings.
  - ii. Relevant information for dissemination in the local region (such as flyers or media releases).
- b. Ensure new members know where to access existing training materials, offer support and answer questions.
- c. Arrange guest speakers.

5. The role of public impact coordinator:

Appoint someone with team leadership and event management experience to plan, organise and liaise with other volunteers to coordinate public events such as invited speakers, protests or rallies, and social events.

Stage 2 - Moving Forward to the Future

Common law Communities will establish Common Law courts for their region. Training and education will be available in due time. Position holders for this aspect are:

- Sheriffs
- CPO
- Peacekeepers

Anyone wanting to fill these future positions, please let your main facilitator know.

Common Law Australia is solution-based driven, giving back to the nation permission to step into their God-given rights and enabling them to stand in them.

Each community has access and is linked into the Commonlaw-australia.com website, the go-to platform to bounce off. There are several ways that Common Law Australia support you with promotions:

- We create a logo for your region.
- We provide an email address.
- We display your logo on our website to direct visitors on where and how to connect with you.
- We direct inquiries that come through the webpage for your area to you for communication and follow-up.
- We provide business cards for you and your members to use for networking and growing your community.
- And we recommend setting up a Telegram group where people in your region can connect with you and matters around Common Law.

As you establish and grow your local Communities, remember to check the website for new resources and training to support your people.

Regularly remind each other of why we are here: to gather together to create change for the common good of humanity, now and for the generations that follow.
